

Lab Onboarding

If you are a new member of the lab, please add yourself to the lab census by filling out this google form! A working lab census can be found in the appendix, including contact info and research interests of all current members.

If you haven't been added to the group slack workspace, ping Jake and he will add you. Slack is the primary medium by which the group communicates outside of meetings. In the slack you will find channels for just about any research focus within the group in addition to channels for socializing and posting pics of food.

Important background papers for the work in the Theory Division can be found in the appendix (work in progress).
